seler coming from the Rhine stopped here. There was then only a wooden board across the Bach. He stood on it and contemplated the turbulent water. He wore a brown velvet waistcoat bordered with blue fox fur, a green basque cap with a feather and carried a lute on his back. Suddenly a light appeared on the Bach. The traveler watched it and saw a raft formed of three trunks of trees on which stood a splendid young girl. She guided the raft with a pole.

Wished to serve has been revealed to me too late. I am going away, free as air.

At the last verse he did not dare raise his eyes. Jetta said nothing.

At last he looked at her. She had frowned, and her glacial look met the young man's. She stood before hilled an angel in anger. He did not dare breathe. "You are doing wrong," but he word worked with a pole.

FOURTH OF JULY.

Exercises began the night before with firecrackers, cannons, fireworks, trumpets, and other ear-splitting devices. At midnight it was at its height, when the noise was all that a full 4th of July programme calls for. From 11 to 1 there were three fire alarms, one for a barn burned on Bow street, the other two false. During the same period of time there were three alarms at Winchester, which were heard almost as plainly as our own. The boys did not capture the church bells, but made the little one at the old depot rattle.

Good Value at a Very Low Price!

We have decided to close out our short lengths of colored and printed muslins, dimi-ties, and lawns at a bargain price and we shall offer them at 5c yd. These goods are of the $12\frac{1}{2}$ and 17c quality and we consider them worth the price but they have been wrinkled and are somewhat out of the folds, so we wish to make a quick sale of them at this price.

W. C. T. U.

"What is more rare than a day in June?" It was on such a day that our W. C. T. U. met with invived guess! from Wakefield, Reading, Stoneham, Winchester, and No. Woburn Unions, on June 26th in the Ladies' Parlor of the First Church, Woburn It was the last meeting before our summer vacation, so we thought to make it of special note. We therefore invited Mrs. Stevenson, the State President, to address us. As she could not be present we were pleased to be relieved from our disappointment in a substitute, Mrs. Harriet Walker, the State Secretary.

The meeting was called to order by President Thompson, and all united in singing. Blest be the tie that binds." Devoitonal exercises were conducted by our National Evangelist, Mrs. If Walker. The topic was the Character of Nehemiah, as an inspiration of helpfulness and joy under the difficulties and trials that beset him in his work. She dwelt upon the noble characteristics of his rich and beautiful life, his loving faith in God, his carnest prayer, his grand qualities of his nature.

As an outcome of her pleadings some 25

Waiters,

etc., are stamped:-

gratitude to his Maker, his consecrated and ceaseless netivities and grand qualities of his nature.

As an outcome of her pleadings some 25 comfort bags were pledged for the Seamen. The speaker also urged a larger circulation of the "Message" and advocated the erection of Ice fountains; 7 little girls sang a prohibition song, which was warmly applauded. The daughters of Mrs. Heartz rendered gracious assistance. They were cheered also.

Mrs. Everett P. Fox and her daughter Sybel gave a fine piano duct.

Other speakers were Mrs. Clarke of Reading and Mrs. Dr. Poland of Wakefield. An original poemby the President entitled. "Scatter flowers while we live," was read by herself. The beauty of the flower arrangements was greatly enjoyed and reflected much credit on the decorative committee. Ice cream and cake were served and there was no lack of garrulity and cheer.

Thus ended a most happy, interesting, and profitable social function.

M. A. H. M., Sec. of the Union.

A few months ago near Shwebo the villagers heard a strange and mysterious voice in the jungle uttering in Burmese the words, "I am going to lay," which were re-peated frequently several times a day for many days. Instinct and Death.

During my 14 years of hermit life 1 have run across many incidents that prove that wild animals comprehend the meaning of death. Two years ago I found the nest of a "wild" domestic cat in an old stone wall. There were three live kittens and one dead one. I left the dead kitten as an experiment. Whenever I had found a nest before this, a visit a few hours later would find the nest deserted, the kittens removed to some secret spot. When I again visited the nest in question it was deserted save for the dead kitten. If that cat had no conception of death she would have placed the dead kitten that would have placed the dead kitten byond my reach, and for the same reason that caused her to remove the live kittens.—Forest and Stream.

JUDGE BOND.

A petition signed by nearly every Woburn Lawyer was presented to Governor Wolcott last Tuesday by Judge Edward F. Johnson asking for the appointment of Benjamin E. Bond, Esq., to fill the vacancy occasioned by the resignation of Judge Charles D. Adams from the Fourth Middlesex District Court, and his appointment is as good as assured. He will make a good Judge.

Lawyer Bond has reason to feel proud of the unanimity with which he was selected by the members of the Bar in Woburn for the honor, especially as he made no effort to obtain the office. It came as a surprise to him, for he had not dreamed of soliciting the appointment.

It was all the more gratifying coming as it did. The office sought the man, and not the man the office.

The fact that our Lawyers were a unit for Mr Bond was a strong endorsement of his fitness for the honorable position. Had he not been worthy his name would not have been presented to to the Governor. Not only so, but Judge Johnson it is said is pleased with the prospect of having him as an associate on the Bench.

Lawyer Bond is intelligent, upright and honorable, and will make an ex-cellent Judge.

THAT VETO.

Mayor Davis added another feather to his already well filled cap when he vetoed the Council order for cutting off a corner of the Common and the death of a noble tree that stands on and shades it. A great many people feel deeply and the council of th grateful to him for interposing an official negative to the unnecessary slaughter and defacement.

We have been told that the Common as any man in was given to the town many years ago for a "Training Field," and in a long and hotly fought legal battle between the town and First church the town won, and its title to the Common was duly confirmed by the Court. If these are facts, then, in the opinion of good lawyers, the proposed slicing off of the corner cannot be carried out except by an Act of the Legislature.

— Some simple souls rather work at home the content of the content o an Act of the Legislature.

Furthermore, nobody outside of the City Council can be found who wanted the Common mutilated and the elm destroyed. It seems to have been the suggestion of some visionary, an iconoclast, incapable of appreciating the value of, and duty to preserve, old and cherished landmarks.

Mayor Davis did well to put his foot

Oriental Judgment on Mixed Babies The Greek ecclesiastical authorities at Aleppo have been called upon to de mon's famous judgment. By a strang coincidence a woman and her daughte coincidence a woman and her daughter both gave birth to a female child at the same time. But the babies got mixed, and, as one of them was ugly and the other pretty and healthy, both mothers claimed the latter. The elder woman maintained that, as all her other children were handsome, the ugly child could not be hers, while her daughter claimed that, being young, handsome and strong, she could not be the mother of a weak and ugly babe.

The religious chief of the town settled the affair in a summary way. He adjudged the beautiful child to the daughter on the ground that, it being her first, the occasion was not to be made one of humiliation and disappointment, while the elder mother could afford to forego her claim since she had already had several handsome children.—Constantinople Malumat.

There are songs enough for the hero
Who dwells on the heights of fame.

I sing for the disappointed—
For those who missed their aim.

THE DISAPPOINTED.

I sing with a tearful cadence
For one who stands in the dark
And knows that his last best arrow
Has bounded back from the mark.

I sing for the breathless runner, The eager, anxious soul, Who falls with his strength exhausted Almost in sight of the goal. For the hearts that break in silence With a sorrow all unknown; For those who need compassion, Yet walk their ways alone.

There are songs enough for the lovers,
Who have love's tender pain.
I sing for the one whose passion
Is given all in vain.

For those whose spirit comrades
Have missed them on the way.
I sing with a heart o'erflowing
This minor strain today. And I know the solar system

Must somewhere keep in space
A prize for that spent runner
Who barely lost the race.

For the plan would be imperfect
Unless it held some sphere
That paid for the toil and talent
And love that are wasted here.

"I move not again by the breadth of a bair. Mornings can dawn and evenings fall for all me! I remain as I am so sure as God sees me. I have also shut the cock up away from you forevermore!"

Now is it really worth while, I ask yen, to endure all this on account of a woman? To the Rozenoites it was an indubitable fact that the stopping of the clock had directly to do with the whims of a capricious girl, else why could it not have stopped yesterday, or Elizabeth sent back the ring tomorrow? To all overtures looking toward a reconciliation, the obstinate girl's only reply was:

"I would rather marry the devil than Janos Gothard!"

"Very well," flared up the affronted one, "I can't hand you over to the devil, but I'll do worse!" and he carried the matter into court.

The learned Paul Szakmary was chosen as Gothard's counsel, Stephen Miskalczi that of Elizabeth. From now on these two honorable gentlemen shunted all the opprobrium of the affair off on to their own shoulders. For three full weeks they hurled every possible epithet at each other through the medium of their clerks (that being the first stage of the suit); then, when their mutual wrath has reached Nie required pitch, they opened out upon each other with the usual charges and countered and content with the usual charges and countered the siently were selected as jury. LISCOURAGING FIGURES.

In the discharge of a disagreeable duty the JOURNAL is compelled to say that the consumption of intoxicating liquors is so the increase in this city. There is more illegal rumselling now than there was at this time last year, unless figures lie.

The claim is strenuously insisted on by certain people that the illicit sale of alcoholic by.

by certain people that the illicit sale of alcoholic beverages is now at its low-est possible limit, and those who think differently are reviled.

To prove beyond a shadow of doubt

To prove beyond a shadow of doubt that the claim has no founda-tion to rest on, we give, reluctantly, it must be contessed, the figures of Chief of Police McDermott which show the number of arrests for drunkenness in this city in June 1898, and June 1899 They are as follows: Arrests June 1899, 57; Arrests June 1898, 41.

The excess of arrests for drunkenness in June 1899 over those in June 1898 is 16, or 40 per cent.

Colonel Robert G. Ingersoll died suddenly at his home, Dobbs Landing, on the Hudson, last week, of heart complaint. He was born i August, 1833, and was therefore getting on in life. Our personal acquaintance with him began in 1863, when his brother E. C. Ingersoll was elected a Member of Congress from the Fifth Member of Congress from the Fifth Illinois District to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Owen Lovejoy, the great Abolitionist, brother of Elijah Lovejoy, who was murdered by the Slavery party at Alton, Illinois, and has continued ever since. E. C. & R. out all G. Ingersoll were a prominent law firm at Peoria at that date, and the members comb a swere among the ablest men at the Illinois Bar. A larger hearted person than "Bob" Ingersoll never lived, and as an orator he had no peers. Had he turned his great mind and generous soul to religion instead of infidelity inanananan i Rev. John W. Day to Resign.

Rev. John W. Day, who for nine years has officiated as pastor of the First church, Unitarian, the oldest church in the United States, has rerigned and accepted a call to the church of the Messiah at St. Louis.

The new field to which Rev. Mr.
Day has been called is more extensive han anything he has before attempted as a large mission is connected with it. Rev. Mr. Day preached at the St. Louis church several times in the early spring, and although the call and ac-spring, a. 1 although the call and ac-ceptance came as a surprise to his large circle of friends here, they wish him success in his new field. Rev. Mr. Day was born in Woburn, June 13, 1861; educated in the public schools of that city, and at Meadville, Theological Seminary, at Meadville, Penn.; and was graduated at the Har-vard Divinity School in 1885.

Fine Monument.

Mr. John J. Hern, the well known Salem street granite and marble dealer and builder of memorial stones, has recently done some fine work on the Judge Converse monument in Wood-brook Cemetery, with which Mrs. Converse is greatly pleased.

In addition to thoroughly renovating the shaft, on a raised panel neatly executed, are cut in relievo these words: Path. 14. 1822—April 21, 1882.

Also the following written by Mr. Frank P. Richardson:

"During thirty-three years of continuous service as Trustee he guided the development of the rural burying ground into the Municipal Cemetery. Founder of its Independent Fund. Originator of its name and iandscape beauty."

This is followed by a verse from the published works of Judge Converse:

Friends may come; friends may go,
Long distance may them sever;
But kind words spoke when they me!

Fifty years ago it cost seven hundred dollars to build a freight car, and the car held only eight tons. Today, for a thousand dollars, can be built a freight car with a capacity of fifty-five tons. In this brief statement is revealed the substance of the remarkable develop.

Glove Cutting.

The cutters of the great glove houses at Brussels and in France earn even higher wages than the cutters of the most fashionable tailors in London and New York. So difficult is this art of cutting gloves that most of the principal cutters are known to the trade by name and by fame, and the peculiar knives which they use in the business are so highly prized that they are handed down from generation to generation as helrlooms.

Ready Made Mermaidens.

In reference to a recent paragraph on mermaidens, a correspondent writes: "It may not be generally known that Japan exports these shams in assorted sizes, in glass cases, at so much perfootrun. They are made of the body of a fish and the dried head of a monkey, so skillfully united that it is difficult to detect where one begins and the other ends. Of late the market for mermaidens has been flat. At one time they were fairly common in the curiosity shops.

In the case of a abandoned vessel there is a peculiar law as applied to ownership. No matter where the derelict be found and towed or assisted in by a prize crew or otherwise the court holds that she is still the property of her original owners, although abandoned by her crew, their agents, and that no effort has been made by them to recover her. It sounds peculiar to the average mariner, but it's the law.

To make a successful salvage claim it is necessary that the property must be actually saved and saved by those claiming to be salvars. In other words, the salvage services must be rendered by pursons the houd her central to reader

ABOUT TAXES.

EDITOR OF WOBURN JOURNAL: It may be that the tax rate this year is generally satisfactory to the tax-payers of Woburn, but I, for one, am not satisfied with it. If my memory serves me it is the highest tax rate since Woburn became a city. I notice that those responsible for it are trying to make it appear that they are not responsible. They seek to justify it and to exonerate themselves

I had supposed we were to have a more business-like and a more economical management of city affairs this year than during the preceding years. But it appear not. Here is a plain confession, as it seems to me, that the best the present administration can do is to equal that of its predecessor.

Divorce by Candles.

When a Burmese husband and wife decide to separate, the woman goes out and buys two little candles of equal length, which are made especially for this use. She brings them home. She and her husband sit down on the floor, placing the candles between them, and light them simultaneously. One candle stands for her, the other for him. The one whose candle goes out first rises and goes out of the house forever, with nothing but what he or she may have on. The one whose candle has survived the longer time, even by a second, takes everything. So the divorce and division of the property, if one can call that a division, are settled.

I had chanced to be along with Doyle on that occasion—assignments of that character were accepted as a matter of course by newspaper men out there in those days—and as the forsaken horse of the feeling outlaws dashed down the hill in an effort to escape past us I launched my riata at the leaders agaunt but fleet and gaudily equipped animal.

My calculations as to the distance of the mark had proved accurate, but so had the aim of the sheriff of Yuma, for hardly had my noose settled about the shoulders of the horse when another loop, hurrled from the opposite direction, fell directly over it, and Doyle and myself had together captured the bandic chieftain's steed. In tropleal countries there are what one can only describe as ventilating bees. During the hot season two or three bees post themselves on their heads at the entrance of the hive and fan the interior with the incessant motion of their wings. They are relieved at intervals by fresh bees who carry on the process. They are kept to their duty by a sort of patrol of bees. This is a well authenticated fact.

Work of Helpmates.

I was driving through one of the best farming districts in western Ontario a few years ago. I expressed my admiration.

"Yes," said my companion, who knew the country thoroughly, "nearly all the farmers around here have second wives."

"Why?" was my surprised inquiry.
"Oh," he answered, "they killed their first wives making the farm!"—Perth Expositor.

"I think so, sir, and the chemist who trades with us is even more so. My firm has the finest line of cosmetics in the country."
"I shouldn't have thought it," slowly responded the man of medicines. "Her complexion has hadded back the photograph."

$70,000,000 was capitalized for the properties of the dividends on the $30,000,000 preferred stock, when the tanners outside the Trust could produce the same quantity of leather with considerably less than one half the samilar.

The bankers who were to finance "The bankers who were to finance the scheme stand well in the financial world, and when they come to investigate thoroughly I doubt if they will advance the money to carry it through. They would hardly want to advise their cliants to invest in the stock. Fifty cents on the dollar for the preferred stock would be a good round price, and it is not claimed that the common stock would have any value whatever." would have any value whatever.

A report of the doings at the meeting of tanners held in New York last week has not come to hand, but it is said some sort of a "combine," unlike the Trust, is contemplated.

If Representative James J. Myers of Cambridge makes a success of his campaign for the Speakership of the next House it will be without the aid of Massachusetts newspapers. He fought the new libel law, which was in-tended to give publishers a fair shake in the Courts, teeth and toenail from start to finish, and if he could have had his say about it the hoary old statutes would have been made still more stringent and unfair. It is the bounden duty of every newspape Editor in the State to oppose Myers it his efforts to secure the Speakership And they will; you bet!

Fear and anxiety are clearly depicted in their leaves; the lawn of brush, and great paintsking in every detail. The artist, being him self of the clan Thompson, no doubt worked, partly at least, con amore, and did his best. The result is a large handsome painting, admiratly executed, not the least of its merits being its fidelity to the facts of history, and a true representation of a by-scene in one of the most important events in American annuals—the Battle of Lexington.

Albert Thompson, the well-known painter of this city, has recently finished a picture, now at his studio, with represents interesting family with a construction of the properties of the construction of the constructio indifferent about the addition to his air-ready huge fortune.

Silly superstitions play an important part in the buying and selling of lottery tickets, and it is no uncommon thing for a person who fancies a certain num-ber to buy it at a price equal to hun-dreds of times its original cost, and many of those who include in this kind of speculation with the fixed idea of of speculation with the fixed idea of gain generally discover that it is an expensive game.

A German banker conceived the idea xepensive game.

A German banker conceived the idea that the first prize in a certain lottery would fall to the holder of a ticket on which the figure three stood either alone or with others. So greatly impressed was he with this belief that he bought up every ticket that bore the numeral three, a little deal which cost him some thousands of pounds, because many of the tickets he fancied were held by persons to whem he had to pay fancy prices.

One of these persons when approached on the matter refused to sell his ticket unless the banker purchased a complete bundle of 20, of which he was anxious to get rid. The banker did not wish to do this, as there was only one ticket bearing a three in the bundle, but he ultimately consented, took the ticket he wanted and gave the vender had all the others. Great must have been his annoyance on discovering later that the first prize had not fallen to him, but had been won by one of the tickets he had bought and soorned.

Some 20 or 25 years ago a gentleman of this place was elected constable, and although he had no opposition his nervousness as to the result was quite noticeable all during the day. After the polis closed and he was declared elected he hield him to the river bank, in the meantime having armed himself with an old pepper box pistol, one of the earliest patt

Saved From the Driver Ants. Saved From the Driver Ants.
In her "West African Studies!" Miss Ringsley tells this story about the famous "driver" ants: "I was in a little village, and out of a hut came the owner and his family and all the household parasites pellmell, leaving the drivers in possession, but the mother and father of the family, when they recovered from this unwonted burst of activity, showed such a lively concern

A boy thinks he is clever because he can wade where it is deep, but God made the dry land for every living thing, and rested on the seventh day. When the boy grows up he's called a husband and stays out nights, but the grew up girl is a widow and keeps house." An Eye to Business.

A little boy named Peter at a public school saw his teacher faint and fall. In the general confusion it was imcool, and the little ones flocked roun and such unmistakable signs of anguish at having left something behind them in the hut that I thought it must be the baby. 'In him far corner for floor!' shrieked the distracted parents, and into that hut I charged.

shrieked the distracted parents, and into that hut I charged.

"Too true! There in the corner lay the poor little thing, a mere inert black mass, with hundreds of cruel drivers already swarming upon it. To seize it and give it to the distracted mother was, as the reporter would say, 'the work of an instant.' She gave a cry of joy and dropped it instantly into a water barrel, where her husband held it down with a hoe, chuckling contented! Shiver not, my friend, at the callousness of the Ethiopian. That there thing wasn't an infunt. It was a ham!"

Nobody's Mother.

There is a story told on one of the circuits, which may or may not have seen the light of print already, of how not long ago a very young barrister rose to examine one of his witnesses with an unaccountably havy notion of her identity. "I think that you are the prisoner's mother?" he began.

"Gertainly not, sir," was the unexpected answer.

Turning hurriedly to his brief, he thought he had found the reason for her evident annoyance. "Ah, yes," he continued, "I see, you are the prosecutivis" smother?"

"Certainly not, "came her reply, still more emphatically.

TALKING SHOP.

A Sentiment Concerning Which There Is Considerable Humbug.
"If there is one thing that makes me a little wearier than another," said an amateur cynic, "it is to hear a man boast that he 'never talks shop.' I met a fairly eminent actor at a little gatha fairly eminent actor at a little gathering not long ago, and when some pleasant reference was made he drew himself up and said, 'You will pardon me, I am sure, but, really, I make it a rule never to talk shop.' That remark convinced two or three thick headed hearers that he was singularly free from vanity, but it convinced the rest of us that he was a double dyed donkey and a poseur of the purest ray serene.

How the Men Keep the Man Enters at a Respectful Distance. "Two facts that may seem some-what peculiar to shore folks," said an ex-sailor of the navy, "are, first, that only about one-half of the men-owar's men in our service or in any other service, in fact, know how to swim, and, second, that sharks are the most cowardly of all living creatures. It is but it is probably due to the fact that a great number of our men-o'-war's men nowadnys come from the interior of the country, where there is no water for them to learn how to swim.

"In the old may—and I put all of my service in the old may—and I put all of my service in the old may, so called—the man who couldn't swim was, as soon as the fact was discovered by his shipmates, incontinently chucked over the side when swimming call went, and he just had to swim. Of course the men wouldn't let a fellow who didn't know how to swim drown before their eyes, but they would see to it that he made a hard stab at the art of swimming before they picked him up. If he didn't succeed in swimming the first time, overboard he would go the very next time all hands took a plunge over the side at swimming call, and thus all of the non-serving the first time, the side at swimming call, and thus all of the non-serving the first time of the non-serving the side Presently the monkey colony came, reconnoitered and, observing the truant—as they evidently considered him—held a consultation. After much chattering two of the largest apes approached the returned wanderer, who appeared petrified with fear, seized him by his arms and, after apparently strangling him, threw him over the precipice beneath the signal station, evidently in revenge as a deserter.

"You may call it that, ma'am! I don't." And Mattie set her lips in a determined way she had, while a look of loving admiration shone through her tears.

"I'm afraid you don't understand, Mattle," continued Miss Priscillar speaking with painful effort. "My sister and I will be hard put to it now not to starve. My brother is dead, We have nothing to depend on for a living—nothing and nobody."

SENATOR SANDERSON.

We conclude from what we hea We conclude from what we near that there will be no opposition to the renomination of Hon. Howard K. Sanderson by the Republicans for the State Senate, and it is safe to predict that his election will follow in due course of time. We are satisfied that course of time. We are satisfied that such is the Republican feeling in this city, and that there has never been any other thought.

Mr. Sanderson fills the bill to the satisfaction of his constituents and stands well with his fellow members of the Senate, and that is all Wahren.

Not many years ago I had occasion to make a saddle journey through the pine barrens of Georgia, where most everybody is a 'cracker' and mighty shiftless. One day, however, I rode into a little community that showed such signs of thrift as to be quite out of keeping with the general character of the barrens, I do assure you, gentlemen. I rode up to a cabin where a gaunt old woman stood in the doorway, and asked her who owned these little farms that were so well kept.

"That farm on the left belongs to my son Jabez,' said she, 'and the next one to my boy Zalim, and the next to my lad Jason, and the next is my boy Potiphar's place, and'—

The first book which Eugene Field had printed was "The Tribune Primer." published in Denver in 1882. It was composed of short lessons in different lines of study. Choosing a Wife For Her Teeth. Choosing a Wife For Her Teeth.
One of the most curious and interesting of bridal customs among the Eskimos is the practice of choosing a bride, not for her face, her figure or her fortune, but for the excellence and strength of her teeth.

Up in the polar circle, where a man's blood freezes and parts of him drop off at the touch of the icy blast, it is a difficult matter to keep the untanned skins from hardening and cracking.

skins from hardening and cracking skins from hardening and cracking.
There is only one process known to the Eskimo, that of chewing. It is necessary to perform this operation every two or three months, and it is a part of the wives' duties. It is for that reason that an Eskimo selects his future helpmates for the size of their teeth and the strength of their laws. Of course one mates for the size of their teeth and the strength of their jaws. Of course one wife cannot attend to all the skins, and so sometimes an Eskimo has as many as ten loving helpmates.

Wives are bought, sold and exchanged among the Eskimos. The price fluctuates like that of wheat or corn or stocks on Wall street. A father with a growing daughter will be approached by a neighbor and offered one, two or three dogs for her, according to her maxillary _owers. Sometimes a blue fosskin or a dozen strips of blubber may enter into the bargain, but dogs are generally the factor used.—San Francisco Examiner.

tion are as attentive as any audienc in the west. Indeed I think they ar exceptional in this respect.

One Sunday morning I preached a sermon on "The Good Fight of Paith."

As I got warmed up my hands kept pace with my tongue. The attention was far beyond the ordinary. Every eye in the house was fixed on the preacher from start to finish. And I—please do not accuse me of vanity—thought, "Surely the sermon is a good one, or it has struck the right chord." And I felt splendid.

The service closed, and the audience was dismissed. As I went down from the pulpit a brother whispered a few words to me; then another. One lady invited me to her house as soon as I could get away. A dozen or more repeated the first brother's words. The exceptional interest in that sermon was due to the fact that the seam in the arm of my coat had parted, revealing a startling flash of whiteness at every gesture. If attention lags, part a seam.—Homiletic Review.

Balloons In a Storm.

Mr. Carl E. Myers, the aeronaut, in discussing the question of aerial navigation, points out one great advantage of the bealton over the aeroplane. The latter cannot stop or hover in the air and if caught in a storm may become helpless.

Delights of Knowledge.
"I suppose you get a great deal of pleasure out of scientific pursuits, said the young woman.

Ten minutes later the boat was again alongside.

"Captain," said the officer, "I am ordered to take charge of this vessel and conduct her to Valparaise, and I regret to say you must consider yourself a prisoner and keep to your room."

Glove Silver.

Glove silver was the strange name given to a custom which prevailed in England during the middle ages—namely, the granting of a certain sum of money to servants to buy gloves with on Lammas day, or, as it is called now, Bank holiday.

of husbands and wives who have lived together to an extraordinary age. St. Jerome mentions a woman who married her twenty-second husband, who, in his turn, had been married to 20 wives. There is an instance recorded in Bordeaux, in 1772, of a man who had been married 16 times. A woman named Elizabeth Nase, who died in Florence in 1768, had been married to seven husbands, her last wedding taking place when she was 70 years of Age.

Numerous cases exist all over the world of people who have been mar-ried four, five or six times. In 1768 a couple was living in Essex who had been married 81 years, the husband being 107 years old and his wife only four years younger. These cases ar also not isolated ones, and it is some what remarkable that in most of suc-Instances when one has died the survivor has died the next day.—Cincin nati Commercial Tribune.

"Jim assured me that I could get up an owl party or a whippoorwill party just as well as he could, but various persistent trials proved that he was wrong. It seemed to me that I imitated the cries of the owl and the whippoorwill as closely as he did, but not a response could I receive to my invitation. No sconer would Jim pipe up or hoot, though, than the answers would begin to come. It was most amazing, and from the way old Jim grinned I imagine he induced the test just to show me that you had to be born in the woods to call an owl."—New York Son.

IT IS TIME

I cannot make her smile again,
That sunshine on her face
That used to make this worn earth seen
At times so gay a place.
At times so gay a place.
The same dear eyes look out at me.
The features are the same.
But, oh, the smile is out of them,
And I must be to blame.

Sometimes I see it still. I went
With her the other day
To meet a long missed friend, and while
We still were on the way
Her confidence in waiting love
Brought back to me to see
The old time lovelight to her eyes
That will not shine for me.

They tell me money waits for mo.
They say I might have fame.
I like those gewgaws quite as well
As others like the same.
But I care not for what I have Nor lust for what I lack

One tithe as much as my heart longs To call that lost light back.

Come back, dear banished smile, come back
And into exile drive
All thoughts and aims and jealous hopes
That in thy stead would thrive.
Who wants the earth without its sun?
And what has life for me
That's worth a thought if as its price
It leaves me robbed of thee?
—Edward S. Martin in Scribner's.

Here do house and lived in it; therefore Dr. Massey was not to be tolerated. It was not often that the two men encountered each other, and after their first meeting they passed without notice. On that first occasion Dr. Massey had lifted his hat, but the squire had deliberately turned his head aside, and the hint had been taken.

About a month after the doctor had taken up his abode in the red house the squire strolled down to the south gate of his grounds and went out into the road to see his daughter mount her bicycle, and after she had started he strolled along a little way that he might get a better view of her as she swept round a bend of the road. The old man's face glowed with pride and love when she waved her hand to him and vanished, and swinging swiftly round he planted his foot on a round stone which rolled on the hard road and threw him violently to the ground.

"I fear you have hart yourself. May I help you?" said a voice beside him.
The squire looked up angrily and saw

The old man drew a long breath.
"I ought to apologize. I fear I have been rude, and I must thank you for what you have done," he said. Then he added stifly, "I have sent for my own medical man, Dr. Travers, to attend to this confounded foot of mine, and I expect him every moment."

"Travers has been called suddenly to town and has left his patients in my gare," replied Dr. Massey. "I am sorry, but I fear you must put up with mefor your daughter's sake. I won't trouble you longer than I can help. In the meantime let me put you comfortable."

Without waiting for permission, the young doctor went down on his knees,

Without waiting for permission, the young doctor went down on his knees, and in a few minutes his skillful hands had brought comparative ease to the injured foot.

"Now I must go back to Miss Turnbull," he said.

"Thank you. You are very kind," said the squire to the owner of the red house.

A year later Squire Turnbull stood looking gloomily out of his library window. His eyes were fixed on the red house, and he was using bad language under his breath.

Suddenly a smile overspread his face as a pair of bicycles came skimming noiselessly up the carriage drive, bearing his daughter Mabel and Dr. Gerard Massey to the front door. The sound of their laughter was heard in the hall; then there was a knock at the library door, and the young doctor came in alone. His handsome face was flushed, and he crossed the floor and took up his position beside the old man at the window.

"Squire," he cried impetuously, "you know my secret quite well. I needn't tell you how dearly I love your daughter the word of the ralready, sir?" returned the squire gruffly, hiding his twinkling eyes with frowning brows.

"No, I have not told her, but I—I think she knows."

When called upon for remarks you were introduced by the President of the Association as the daughter of Comrade Alvan Hosmer of Co. F. In your remarks you referred to your father as being dead, recently dying, and of his thirty years of suffering from sunstroke which he received while on the march down the Peninsula. It brought to my mind the incident, and many times I had referred to his case when I have heard people say that they should think anyone when he felt the oppressiveness of the heat would get in the shade before he was sunstruck.

His case was as sudden as the blowing out of a candle. I was marching in the same file with him. The heat was very oppressive, but he did not complain, he merely dropped, and two comrades of the company were left with him to give him what assistance they could.

I always thought he never recovered fill I heard your statement of his long sufferings, for the report was that he never recovered and was buried where he fell. I can see him now as he looked when with the Company that day on the ground invensible, with his equipments all on in heavy marching order.

THE PRICE OF PEPPER.

In the sixteenth century all the pep-per consumed in England was bought by the English merchants from the Dutch, who brought it from India. by the English merchants from the Dutch, who brought it from India. Owing to racial jealousy, the Dutch traders in 1599 raised the cost from 3 shillings to 6 shillings per pound. This petty display of ill feeling caused considerable annoyance to the English merchants and aroused in them that feeling of independence which has always been so characteristic of our race.

They determined to import their pepper direct from India in their own ships, and for this purpose formed a company, called the Governor and Company of Merchants of London Trading to the East India company.

Their first voyages embroiled them in almost innumerable quarrels with the Dutch and Portuguese, and for a time the venture proved a financial failure. It was not until 1615 that the company became successful and obtained lucrative treaties, owing to their decisively defeating the Portuguese.

From this time on their possessions gradually increased, slowly at first, and gradually increased, slowly at first, and

I persuaded him to proceed, and when we were out of sound of the uproar I asked him what the trouble was.

""Why, monsieur,' he said, Jaspard ran into Pierre's cab and scraped some of the paint from the wheel. Pierre was naturally very angry and swore at Jaspard, whereupon Jaspard said, "If you don't shut up, I'll hit your customer on the head with my whip!" and Pierre retorted, "If you hit my customer, I'll hit your customer!" Then Jaspard struck Pierre's customer, and Pierre resented the insuit by hitting For inflamed eyes this mucilaginous

The Curate's Trousers.

A clergyman who has been an ideal rector to one congregation for more than 20 years has had a wide experience in curates. He knows them like a book, as the saying is, knows just what effect an unlimited course of afternoon tens, committee meetings, little dinners and general flattery will have on a given temperament and how it will be manifested.

Therefore, he has evolved this general law: If the carpet before a curate's mirror is threadbare and the crease in his trousers above reproach, you may be sure that the world is too much with him; if the carpet by his bedside is threadbare and his trousers bag at

THE TROUT AND THE RING.

'Twas Clara's wish to take a fish
From the bridge across the brook,
So I rigged her a line, both strong and fine,
And baited her Limerick hook.

With a spring and a snap a speckled old chap Snatched the bait and made the line sing; I gave a shout at the sight of the trout, And Clara dropped her ring. We searched for days, in many ways, We raked and dragged and sounded; We sifted ooze, but 'twas no use— In short, we never found it.

'Twas & year, I guess, when Uncle Jess Caught a big trout on the hy; It was plump and round and weighed a And he brought it home to fry.

once more; he held one of my hands in his and pressed it convulsively when the pain became unbearable. Yet at intervals he had a few moments respite. "Ettenne," he said to me, "I am dying very young, and I regret life, for with your friendship it was sweet to me. We are about to part, but who knows whether it is forever! No one.

"Ettenne," he said to me. "I am dying very young, and I regret life, for with your friendship it was sweet to me. We are about to part, but who knows whether it is forever! No one can say what awaits us beyond the tomb—perhaps further suffering, perhaps happiness or nothingness. But if my soul is immortal, if it retains in unknown regions the affections and memories that filled it during its sojourn in on earth, God be praised! And if it be true that we shall see once more those whom we have loved tenderly, be sure, my good Etienne, be sure that I will come back to you. Some evening in spring, I hope! I feel death is easier, and yet I am suffering tortures. But my poor mother said to me when she smiled to me. Her eyes are full of tears now. Etienne, goodby." A sigh and he was gone.

I will not paint my grief to you; it was terrible. And when Georges was buried in the midst of the beating of druns and the shouts of victory, I wept bitter tears, for I felt that my youth was lying in the coffin by my friend's side. Georges' strange farewell had impressed me profoundly. At night hideous visions haunted my sleep. For six months I was as nervous as a woman, and, if you will believe me, major, I was positively afraid to be alone in the dark.

But one year, two years passed. Georges' memory, indelibly graven on my heart, yielded, without becoming effaced, to the preoccupations of the war to my anxieties about my future. My puerile fears, a positive disease, vanished. Yes, the more I look back the surer I am of it. I had quite become myself once more, my mind and brain were clear, when the event I am about to tell you of struck me with stuper. I had just been made captain en second.

After rough and, I may add, glorious campaigns, I returned with my regi-

WON ON MERIT.

Captain Linwood E. Hanson does Captain Linwood E. Hanson does not owe his appointment to a Captaincy in the 43d Regiment to political influence or a "pull" with politicians. He won the honor purely on personal and military merit. That is a feather in his cap.

Those who know Captain Hanson best were the most earnest in support of his application for a commission in one of the new Regiments. Governor Wolcott was induced to forward his name only after a thorough examination of his personal and military record. The Governor was requested by the War Office. The Governor was requested by the War Office to send two names from each of the Massachusetts Regiments for appointments, and after due deliberation he selected Captain Hauson as one of the two from the 5th, and accompanied the name with a strong endorsement of his worth. To the indorsement of the military of the State, rather than the influence of the State, rather than the influence of politicians, was due Capt. Hanson's appointment. Such military leaders as General Bancroft, Colonel Whitney of the 5th, Chaplain House, Colonel Guild, Captain Edwin F. Wyer, and others, were enthusiastic in their support of Captain Hanson's application.

Governor Wolcott was deluged with requests, oral and written, for recognition by men anxious for commissions tion by men anxious for commissions and their friends, and to have their and their friends, and to have their names included when he 'made up his jewels." The pressure on him was immense, and out of the great crowd, after a careful study of his qualifications, and due examination, he chose Captain L. E. Hanson for a Captain's commission, and the War Department, without hesitation or delay, accepted when the state of the control of the control of Lynn on Sept. 8.

It should be added that Hon. John here.

M. Harlow, late member of the Governor's Council, and now State Trustee of the Massachusetts General Hospital, and Congressman W. S. Knox of this District, were enthusiastic supporters of Captain Hanson's petition, and did good work in his behalf.

FOR REPRESENTATIVE.

From what we are able to gather from those who are supposed to know the most about it we conclude that it is as good as settled that Herbert S. Riley, Esq., is to receive the Republican nomination for the Legislature this fall. No other name, to our knowledge, base here mentioned or is thought of bay, Mai has been mentioned, or is thought of,

for the honor.

The nomination would be a good one. As Chairman of the Republican Ward and City Committee Mr. Riley has done good work for the Party in this city and if anybody is entitled to recognition and promotion we think he is. Successful laborers in the vineward deserve reward.

Colonel Curtis Guild, candidate or Lieutenant Governor, is courting the Grangers these days and making many friends among them. His sup-porters say the Colonel's calling and election is sure.

Representative Alva S. Wood of this city attended the great Bates inve feast at Billerica on the 25th ult. Senator Sanderson was also a guest of the committee. Hon, Joshua B. Holden was conspicuous by his absence commission, and the War Department, without hesitation or delay, accepted the Governor's recommendation and made the appointment.

Thus it was that Captain Hanson owed his good fortune to merit alone, the same having been brought conspicuously out by his military brethren in the State.

Edward W. Kenney Dead.

Mr. Edward W. Kenney, one of the oldest and best known men in this city, a currier by trade, died a little after 12 o'clock last Wednesday morning, Aug. 30, 1899, after an illness of about three months. He suffered two shocks of paralysis early in the summer and has been failing ever since. His wife died about three years ago, since which his health has not been good.

Mr. Kenney was about 75 years old. He came to Woburn from Roxbury 50 years ago and has resided here ever since. He was an older brother of the late Peter Keeney, a prominent citizen of Woburn, and like his brother, always took a lively interest in Irish No Right To Ugliness.

Beecher's Witty Retort.

Ward Beecher:

"I met Beecher during my first visit to America, and I heard him preach in the temple of his ministrations, the Plymouth church, in Brooklyn. Beecher's style as a preacher was more like that of the pulpit orators who flourished a century or two ago than like the style of our own more refined or more conventional days. He never thought it beneath himself or his calling to say an amusing thing in one of his sermons conventional days. He never thought it beneath himself or his calling to say an amusing thing in one of his sermons if the thought came up appropriately in his mind. He had a way when he entered his church on the Sunday of taking up any letters which might be addressed to him there, and he sometimes opened one of these and read it out to the congregation and made it a text on which to hang a discourse.

"One day he opened such a letter, and he found that it contained the fact to his congregation and then quietly added, 'Now I have known many an instance of a man writing a letter and forgetting to sign his name, but this is the only instance I have ever known of a man signing his name, but this is the only instance I have ever known of a man signing his name, but this is the only instance I have ever known of a man signing his name, and forgetting to write the letter."

Sept. 5, 1809.
Perhaps the people of Wohrar are getting out of patience waiting to hear something about the Runford Monument.

July 5th I contracted for the making of the pedestal with Mr. Ola Anderson of Concord, N. H., to make it of Runford grantic. I showed the contractor my drawing of the pedestal. He said portioned and would look well.

As Mr. Anderson had no stone quarried suitable for the pedestal he was ollided to get out some expressly for it. Within six months I have visited acceptance of the pedestal with the contractor my drawing of the pedestal he was ollided to get out some expressly for it. Within six months I have visited acceptance of the pedestal of the pedestal with the contractor of the pedestal was quarried and the capasions in the shed being dressed.

Paying Tolls In Horseshoes.

One of the most curious survivals of the custom of paying tolls exists at Oakham castle, in Rutlandshire, England. From very ancient times when ever a peer of the realm rides by the

This is how Zola is described by Stuart Henry in "Hours With Famous Parisians:" A business man, no emotion, no ideals, no imagination, no poetry, in his personal intercourse. He does not try to win or entertain you. He takes no personal interest in you and does not expect you to take any personal interest in him. He talks frankly and freely about everything, but in a secular way. He makes life seem to you merely a commercial career. Fiction for him is editions of 100,000 frances a year. His magisterial and mag. land. From very ancient times whenever a peer of the realm rides by the place he is required by the constable of the easile to contribute a horseshoe in lieu of a fine. These are then hung upon the walls of a room in the castle, which is thought to have been formerly used as a chapel. The custom still obtains, though nowadays noblemen who pass through the town generally contribute shoes of some precious metal, richly decorated and bearing their cont of arms. Quite lately the earl of Onslow forwarded to J. E. Whitehouse, the constable of Oakham castle, a new horseshoe richly decorated, bearing the inscription, "William Hiller, fourth earl of Onslow."

Another nobleman, who was driving a tandem through the town a short time ago, was called upon for the customary shoe. When it arrived it was found to be of pure gold and beautifully chased. It is now one of the most interesting objects in the rollection.

Sharpness of Lunatics.

Having an appointment to preach at an insane asylum for the first time, the editor of The Christian Register asked the medical director for some points. He said the most important thing was to avoid any attempt on the part of the preacher to accommodate himself to his audience as if they were different from other people. He said:

"If you attempt to adapt yourself to their condition, they will instantly discover it, and they will hate you."

Nor pass to the shadow unblest
If love, through a world and its hate, dear,
Lead life to the Illies of rest.

an engine.

While dodging in and out of the cab, wrestling with the sand lever and the injector, I struck the point of my derby against the cab window and it shot down the mountain, leaving me bare-headed. I signed to Noah; he shook his head—he had no extra cap. I went into the clothes box and found a little jaunty brown cap that I had seen Mos-ley wear and that nobody but Mosley would think of wearing. As I put it on Noah raised his hand with a look

As I went about oiling the engine I heard the fireman telling the brakeman how she had behaved when Mospley laid off and an extra man had gone out on the Leven-four.

"If she'd do that then, what'll she do to 'em now; what'll she do to this chippy runner?" The brakeman shook his head.

At last, after much firing, the fireman succeeded in getting the engine (and the engineer) hot, and away we went—three engines and 15 loads for the foothills.

In the valley the Leven-four did fairly well, but the moment we hit the heavy grade—217 feet to the mile—she began to cut up. The pointer on the steam gauge began to go back and back. I shut off the injector to allow her to "pick up," and when the water was as low as I could afford to let it go I tried to put on the pump again, but it refused to work.

We tried the left hand lift. It would start off all right, singing like a locust, and then break and shoot the water into the ditch. In the meantime I got the right hand injectors going again, but when I trield the water the blue steam hissed from the gauge cocks hot and dry as a croupy cough. loudly causes fercing of the voice. If people would relax the throat and then strengthen the high tones by their free and proper use, they would soon notice a vast improvement in tone quality. "Can every one learn to sing,?" Unquestionably, yes. Every one who can speak can also learn to sing, if he will take a little trouble, for the very same instrument, the larynx, furnishes the voice for both speech and song. The only difference between the speaking voice and the singing voice is that the former uses the lower and medium tones and the latter uses chiefly the higher and medium tones. If a person thinks he cannot sing, let him, in the first place, be satisfied to begin at the beginning, instead of at the end. Let him not be discouraged because he cannot at once sing a whole tune correctly, but let him believe that, if, as must be the case, he can form any single tone or two tones correctly, he can improve upon this ability, just as any one who can add two and two can also add three and three, and then four and four. The main thing to understand is that inability to sing is not generally caused, as is so often supposed, by want of voice or want of ear, but simply by lack of flexibility of voice—that is, weakness of the muscles which tighten and relax the vocal cords.—New York Herald.

was decided to hold the Republican caucuses to select delegates to the several conventions on Tuesday evening, Sept. 26.

The only real contest in sight will be the choice of Guild or Bates delegates, over which there is likely to be a sharp fight. The selection of delegates to the Representative convention will probably give rise to no serious trouble. The State ticket, except the office of Lieutenant Governor, is settled and will have no disturbing influence on the caucuses.

Remembering always that it is at the primaries that the cheap politician gets in his underhanded work, or tries to, the Republicans of this city should make it a point to attend them and see to it that no unworthy schemes for the expense of Party welfare are allowed expense of Party welfare are allowed to succeed.

About the Schoolhouse Site.

EDITOR JOHNAL:—As my vote, at the last meeting of the School Committee, in opposition to the approval of the report of the Sanitary Engineer on the proposed High School site has caused some personal inquiries as to my reasons, a brief statement of the same may be of interest to some of the remoters of the JOHNAL.

I do not question the accuracy of the report. I take it the conditions are as represented. We were informed, however, that this acceptance of the report would be regarded as a final approval of the site, with all its objectionable collateral features, and this approval I declined to give.

I objected, in the first place, to the manner in which the report came to the School Committee. It was stated by the Chairman of the Board that it was sent by Chairman of the Board of Aldermen with a personal request, supported by a vote of the City Council, that the School Committee consider the document in executive session and not make public its contents.

Why this secrecy? The price had been fixed. The citizens were paying for the report and the citizens will have to pay for the site. Since the price could not be affected, why should not the citizens be privileged to know the contents of the report, and if they objected to any features of it, have opportunity of making known these objections to their representatives in the city government before the latter voted upon it?

How many of the people of Woburn know the findings of this engineer? Probably not one person in eyery hundred. The report is generally assumed to be an assurance that there is on that for a satisfactory foundation for a school building. This general assurance is comforting although it does excite a little apprehension as to the cost of building the cellar for the school when you are told that you must go down from 23 to 30 feet below the level of Main street in order to reach this foundation. This means that when the building is graded to a point five feet above the street level, as proposed, there will be from 28 Aureira Page.—About 4,000 square feet of land situated in said Woburn, being Lot 111, Block s, on Plan of Leppenwell Land Company, recorded with Middlesex So. Dist. Deeds, Book of Plans 84, Plan 47, bounded as follows, viz:—Northerly by Patnam street: southerly by Lot 122 in all High School maintain that for $75,000 a school building on the general plan of the y Melrose High School, from which the dimentions of the proposed school are taken, and be built and eqquipped? I maintain that such a fact is impossible and this decided and the opinion of two of the best building experts in the State.

The result will be that if this site is adopted and the construction of the school commenced, the next city government will be asked for $20,000 or $25,000 additional with which to complete it. How will the citizens like that, with an existing tax rate of $19.20. I maintain that the school site, the school building its entire furnishings, and the filling and grading, should not cost above $100,000, and I believe that by active the school building its entire furnishings, and the filling and grading, should not cost above $100,000, and I believe that by active the school building its entire furnishings, and exclusive of the cost of the site.

I maintain, also, that the acceptance of the report did not approve the site, because the original vote of the School Board not only provided that the report of the sanitary engineer should be satisfactory, but that the acceptance of the site also depended upon a proviso declaring that it would be deemed satisfactory if the City Council and a location more suitable in the matter of cost and convenience. PARKER, The Druggist.

And many a Jackey Horner.
The dear old log is a twisted thing,
But it holds the sweetest water.
That ever was drunk by beast or bird.
Or quaffed by son or daughter,
And yesterday, after forty years,
I searched until I found it—
A doubtful chance, for the grasses' arr.
Were lovingly clasped around it.

A face looked up from the mimle sea— Alas, 'twas not the old one! But the yellow frog at the farther end Was the very same old bold one— A pop eyed flend—who never winked When I bent to quaff the nectar. If it wasn't that same old "crazy quilt," It must have been his specter.

And Nell—ob, Nell—do you mind the day You knelt down close beside me— I never shall forget it, sweet, Whatever may betide me— And we bent above this telltale cup, Reflecting untold blisses,

And Risses chasing Risses?

A brown faced, blue eyed, barefoot girl—
The angels, how they love her!

A barefoot boy with bleeding feet,
Her constant, gray haired lover—
Will search the paths of heaven some day
For such a nook as this,
And find, perchance, this very pool,
With all its treasured kisses.

—Edward A, Jenks in Granite Monthly,

Thoroif sighed and turned again to look at the green billside, the white figure and the dark fir trees beyond, but some of the rowers heard through the rumble of their oars the sob that burst its way between Gudmund's lips.

along the beach. Now she had passed the headland, and they saw her rise and fall with the long heave of the open sea. Now the wet oars flashed in the sun as the rowers tossed them inhoard, and running forward loosed the great square sail that bellied from the yard. Twice the canvas flapped, then, sheeted home, it stood taut and fall, while the good ship, heeling beneath it, plowed steadily southward.

The haze had cleared before the fresh sea wind, and the ocean lay blue and sparkling in the sanlight. Thorlinda stood alone, her grave eyes watching the gleam of the sail until it sank from sight, and the empty, peaceful ocean gave no sign of the storm which was to drive that keel far into unknown waters. Noon lay heavy over a southern land—a land shady with groves of palm and fruit trees, seented with thick odors, washed about its shores by a cloudless sea. Upon a dazzling stretch of sand Gudmund sat silent, looking out across the ocean—an ocean such as he had never known in his northern home, for its waters were of a deep and glowing purple, like the light upon mountain peaks at sunset, and in place of the thunder crash of a Norwegian surf low ripples curled murmurously along the shore. Gudmund was no longer a youth. His curled murmurously along the s. Gudmund was no longer a youth.

and the vikings' ship lay on the beach like a stranded sea monster, her planks gaping open in the fierce sun.

To Gudmund, gazing seaward with empty eyes, there arose a dream of his own northlaud. The fiord glimmered gray between black walls of rock; the snowy land lay white and silent in the winter twilight, darkened with long violet shadows upon the eastward hills. Here and there a breath of smoke rose skyward from some half buried grange. Again he saw their father's hall—the hearth with great logs roaring in red flame, the long tables where house carles laughed and clattered the mead horns, and high up on the dais the ruddy face and beard of the old viking crowning the feast, Thorlinda at his side.

While he mused his brother came from tween his fingers, blackening the white sand. Thus the two gazed at each other, nor could all the strength of natural grief keep back from Gudmand's eyes a sparkle of hope and joy. Thorolf's mouth twitched. His shaddering breath broke into a great sob that sent a blood gust from the wound.

"You have Thorlinda. I hate you!" he moaned, then turned upon his face, gasped once and never stirred again.

A black autumn afternoon gloomed above the fiord. The ocean shivered, the two brothers more than four year crowning the least, Therman and side.

While he mused his brother came from among the chades of the thicket seeking him and threw an arm in kindly way about his shoulders.

"Why, Gudmund, were the dark girls shy, or are you unkind to them?" he asked.
"I dreamed of home, "said the younger dully. "How soon do we sail?"

they meant anything that was deady to any recognized game. They chose sides of eight each, and the hunt lasted seven days, on five of which the weather was drizzly and wet. Here is what they killed: One weasel, 58 crows, 2 mag-pies, 7 coons, 9 owls, 3 minks, 1 eagle, 36 skuuks, 4 hawks and 2 wildcats.

There was a time when side hunts were extremely popular, everything was usually the game heads that counted most, but now that there is so little game it is no longer popular to kill for count, because it savors too much of killing for a price. Vermin hunts hav been recorded in increasing number from time to time for some years bad out of favor.

They held a squirrel hunt lasting one day up in Herkimer county once. All the kinds of squirrels they have there are red and ground squirrels, and being midwinter the ground squirrels were all hibernating. The hunters got three bushels of rot squirrels, two bushels of rabbits (varying hares) and half a dozen foxes. That night they had a supper and dance, the losing side paying for it. These hunts usually wind up in a dance, so that the women folks can have their share of the sport too.—New York Sun.

An Hilterate Preferred.

There are many who object to the education of the masses, but the following advertisemnt is the first instance I have seen of an employer of labor expressly stipulating for ignorance as a qualification for employment:

"Wanted—A thoroughly capable, exercise all around gardener; sm."

"Wanted—A thoroughly capable, ex-ergetic, all around gardener; sm. "I vinery and greenhouse, cows, pigs and poultry; boy kept; a man who cambet read and write preferred; age about 50; must have first rate character; wag.s, £1 a week and small cottage. He Knew Mamma.

The eldest boy of the German emperor is a little bit of an enfant terrible. One day the little crown prince was being laboriously catechised by the chaplain, who continually impresed him that all men are sinners. "Well," exclaimed the boy impatiently, being wearied of these admonitions, "father may be a sinner, but 1 know mother isn't."

McSchill, Randon."

I would suggest to Lord Salisbury and these who share his desire to curtail the dangerous operations of the school board that it would be a good thing to form a union of employers, if any others are to be found, who share this good lady's views. The demand for improved education is largely fundenced by the fact that an educated man is, as a rule, considered worth more money than a dunce. Open up a market for ft-literates and you will take all the steam out of educational progress.—London Truth.

THE SCHOOLHOUSE SITE.

The School Board and City Counc are in a muddle over the purchase of a site for the new High School building. It is proper to make this statement because both of the Boards named have, from the outset, been persistant in their efforts to keep the taxpayers in ignorance of the real condition of the executive session over the unimportant matter of disposing of the report of the sanitary engineer on the Kelley lot. This was done for no other apparent reason than to blind the people and ders of Borthe office. ward off merited criticism.

ward off merited criticism.

But investigation enables us to assure our readers that nothing has yet been accomplished towards securing a lot for the new schoolhouse. The Trustees of But investigation enables us to assure our readers that nothing has yet been accomplished towards securing a lot for the new schoolhouse. The Trustees of the Kelley property have said what they would sell it for. Their price has not been accepted. The City Council reported to the School Board that they had decided on buying that lot, provided the School Board would take it, and asked for concurrent action. The School Board accepted the report conditionally. The conditions have hot been complied with by the City Council. That leaves the question just where it was before the report was submitted, that is to say, no progress has been made towards buying the Kelley lot. It is now said that if our authorities should conclude to take it the price is liable to be raised above the figures given, showing that the Trustees regard what has been done as merely preliminary to steps that may, or may not, result in a saile. THE CAUCUSES.

THE CAUCUSES.

It ought not to be necessary, and perhaps it isn't, to remind the Republicans of this city of the importance of attending the caucuses next Tuesday evening. The caucus vote lays the foundation for the election because that vote selects the delegates that make the more faithful or efficient worker in the nominations and the nominations are accepted by the parties and voted for at on the Committee if this isn't so. For example, take the case of Lieutenant Governor. The caucuses will determine, by the choice of delegates, whether Speaker Bates or Col. Guild shall receive the Republican nomination at the State convention. The caucuses too will settle the fate of the rival candidates for the Legislature. These questions are of the very highest importance, and should induce every

Mr. J. J. Myers of Cambridge who aches to be Speaker of the next Massachusetts House of Representa-tives, is a trimmer. The JOURSAL tives, is a trimmer. The JOUNAL has had occasion to say as much before now. And now comes the Boston Record and says substantially the same thing. In summing up the Gould Bates situation in Cambridge last Friday evening the Record stated that, on the Committee's ticket there were six for Guild, one for Bates, "and one man about whose vote no man can tell That is J. J. Myers." This gentleman managed to get his name placed on both ignorance of the real condition of the question. In proof of this we may state that as recently as its meeting a week ago the School Board went into executive session over the unimportant matter of disposing of the report of the then, he won't get there by several rows of appletrees. Charles R. Saun-ders of Boston is the coming man for what has been done as merely preliminary to steps that may, or may not, result in a sale. Propositions have been made by both sides, but not one legally binding step has been taken towards the purchase of the Kelley property.

The report of the sanitary engineer really amounted to nothing; first, because its information was inconsequential; secondly, because it is not at all likely that the people would consent to the purchase of a lot that will cost $25,000, or more, to put it in proper shape to receive the building. If working estimates should make that sum

Hon. Joshua B. Holden, late ing estimates should make that sum necessary, a mass meeting would settle the point very quickly.

As nothing has really been done towards securing a site for the school-house, the most sensible thing the Boards can do is to drop the whole scheme and begin over again.

the track record of 211 of last year.
The purse events to be contested include the following classes: On the first day, Wednesday, Sept. 27, the 3-minute class will trot and pace for a purse of $300, followed by a 2:25 trot and pace for $250. On Thursday $225 will be offered for a 2:33 mark, and $300 will go to the 2:18 class. The 2:29 class will start on Friday, either trot or pace, for $250, and a novelty in the shape of a matinee race of one-half mile heats, and every heat a race for a purse of $100.

The free-for-all on Saturday, the last day, will be a grand attraction, trot or pace, for $400, and on the same day the addition a special race against a bicycle will be provided.

Astonishing feats from America's greatest acrobats, the Three Herberts, will be seen daily, and the McBride Brothers, in an entirely new act on the revolving ladders, will be the recipients of tumultuous applause.

The much talked about Labells, Harry and Annie, known as America's greatest hand balancers and acrobats, will fill a four days' engagement.

Speaking of dogs, the King of Canine Tutors is Prof. Dave Burke, and by special arrangement he will appear with his grand combination of the best-trained dogs on each each day of the fair. Combined in his troop are dogs that play genuine music in perfect time and tune, appearing in boxing contest and in marvelous creations almost impossible to enceive.

Then the father would kneel before the door of the little building and say a Pater Noster for the soul of his dear Sigebald. He did so today also. Then he rose and looked longingly through the window, but he could not even see the coffin, for it stood in a niche in the wall behind the altar, and immediately after his son was laid to rest the bereaved father, overcome by his grief, had flung the key of the door into the rushing torrent of the Bude. As the elderly couple stood at the door they could see, through the trunks of the beeches, a crowd of people with gleaming scythes in their hands; some, however, had also naked halberds and spears.

"Ah, heavens!" cried the dame. "It is not yet harvest time. And why do they come thus, with song and rejoicing? See how red the morning sun shines on their scythes."

"H'm! There must have been a grave mowing somewhere," muttered the knight. He knew the red on the bare steel far too well to take it, as did his wife, for the reflection of the morning sun.

Meanwhile the peasants had formed a semicircle around the venerable pair, and out from their ranks, between the scythes and lances which they hand, say the first part of a course or rhowing with those of a course or rhowing with those or the reflection of the morning sun.

The only real contest was over the election of delegates to the Representative convention. A thorough and systematic canvass had been made by the friends of the contestants, Herbert S. Riley and Frank E. Wetherell, and the caucus work was earnest, good natured, and fruitful. The caucuses were not only unusually large, but they were not only unusually large, but they were conducted fairly, honestly, and without prejudice to either side—just as such important meetings of the people these fall days.

The count showed that a large ma jority of the delegates chosen were for Mr. Wetherell, the exact figures being 20 for him and 9 for Mr. Riley. This, of course, insures the nomination of Mr. Wetherell as one of the Republian candidates in the 28th Representa

STATE CONVENTION.

The Republican State convention is in session today at Music Hall, Boston.

The main contest this afternoon will be over the nomination of a candidate for Lieut. Governor, and it may be that more than one ballot will be necessary to choose a candidate for State Auditor.

Mr. Sexton is one of the most interesting figures in the English house of commons. He is a powerful debater and is possessed of remarkable resources in the line of eloquence. He is a brilliant mathematician, and his ability to use statistics in a telling way is one of his most valuable qualities. In private conversation he is even more sparkling than in debate. He is witty, epigrammatic and sympathetic. He is a great Shakespearcan scholar.

"So that is it! A coffee machine! I thought it was a sewing machine or some such thing. What did you call it? A self-actor extraction and so forth machine? What a monstrous name! How disconting must be wrong!"
